Application 2006-1403-3

Broadcasting Public Notice CRTC 2006-153

23 November 2006

Licence amendment to replace condition of licence relating to the use of local availabilities in non-Canadian satellite services

In this decision, the Commission approves an application to amend the regional broadcasting licence for the Class 1 cable broadcasting distribution undertakings serving the above-mentioned locations, in order to replace the existing condition of licence relating to the use of local availabilities.

The application

1. The Commission received an application by Bell Aliant Regional Communications Inc., general partner, as well as limited partner with Bell Canada and 6583458 Canada Inc. (the limited partners), carrying on business as Bell Aliant Regional Communications, Limited Partnership to amend the regional broadcasting licence for its Class 1 cable broadcasting distribution undertakings (BDUs) serving the above-mentioned locations. Specifically, the licensee requested that the Commission replace the condition of licence relating to the use of local availabilities, which currently reads:

The licensee may, at its option, insert certain promotional material as a substitute for the “local availabilities” (i.e., non-Canadian advertising material) of non-Canadian satellite services. At least 75% of these local availabilities must be made available for use by licensed Canadian programming services for the promotion of their respective services, for the promotion of the community channel and for unpaid Canadian public service announcements. A maximum of 25% of the local availabilities may be made available for the promotion of discretionary programming services and packages, customer service information, channel realignments, cable FM service and additional cable outlets.

with the following condition of licence:

The licensee may, at its option, insert certain promotional material as a substitute for the “local availabilities” (i.e., non-Canadian advertising material) of non-Canadian satellite services. At least 75% of these local availabilities must be made available for use by licensed Canadian programming services for the promotion of their respective services, for the promotion of the community channel and for unpaid Canadian public service announcements. A maximum of 25% of the local availabilities may be used to provide subscribers with information regarding customer service and channel realignments, and for the promotion of discretionary programming services and packages, cable FM service, additional cable outlets and non-programming services, including Internet and telephone services. [emphasis added]

Interventions

2. The Commission did not receive any interventions in connection with this application.

Commission’s analysis and determinations

3. In Promotion of non-programming services using local availabilities, Broadcasting Public Notice CRTC 2006-69, 2 June 2006 (Public Notice 2006-69), the Commission set out its conclusion that it is appropriate to update its policy with respect to the use of local availabilities to permit BDUs to use these availabilities to promote non-programming services, subject to certain conditions. Specifically, the Commission concluded that BDUs that seek and receive amendments to their conditions of licence so as to use local availabilities for this purpose will be authorized to use a maximum of 25% of local availabilities to provide information regarding customer service and channel realignments and for the promotion of discretionary programming services and packages, cable FM service, additional cable outlets and non-programming services, including Internet and telephone services.
4. In Public Notice 2006-69, the Commission also added that the promotion of non-programming services in local availabilities should generally be limited to those non-programming services that are made available in conjunction with programming services that are offered by the BDU, by an affiliated company, or by a third party pursuant to a marketing arrangement with the BDU. The Commission noted that, should a complaint arise, BDUs should ensure that they are in a position to provide, at the Commission’s request, a report with respect to their use of local availabilities. With respect to costs of broadcasting promotions in local availabilities, the Commission reiterated that BDUs may only charge Canadian programming services their share of the direct costs associated with the insertion of their promotional material in local availabilities.

5. The Commission considers that the present application falls within the scope of its updated policy regarding the use of local availabilities set out in Public Notice 2006-69. Accordingly and consistent with that policy, the Commission approves the application by Bell Aliant Regional Communications Inc., general partner, as well as limited partner with Bell Canada and 6583458 Canada Inc. the limited partners), carrying on business as Bell Aliant Regional Communications, Limited Partnership, and amends the regional broadcasting licence for its Class 1 cable BDUs serving the above-mentioned locations by replacing the condition of licence relating to the use of local availabilities with the following condition of licence:

The licensee may, at its option, insert certain promotional material as a substitute for the “local availabilities” (i.e., non-Canadian advertising material) of non-Canadian satellite services. At least 75% of these local availabilities must be made available for use by licensed Canadian programming services for the promotion of their respective services, for the promotion of the community channel, and for unpaid Canadian public service announcements. A maximum of 25% of the local availabilities may be used to provide subscribers with information regarding customer service and channel realignments, and for the promotion of discretionary programming services and packages, cable FM service, additional cable outlets and non-programming services, including Internet and telephone services.
